Dear Harold,

Oct. 5, 1992

Thanks for your words of encouragement on my article and suggestions for revising it. As you will read in my letter to Cyril Wecht, the Inquirer rejected it. Fortunately, they sent it back quickly with a short note. As your comments correctly indicated, the article was not written in appropriate newspaper style. In fact, most of the writing I have done in recent years has been speeches. Also, when I did write for a school paper years ago I generally did book reviews.

In any case, I hope Dr. Wecht will give me some help. I heard this morning on National Public Radio that Specter is ahead by over 10 pts.

Take care,

Jerry
